

SEMICONDUCTOR LIGHT EMITTING DEVICES INCLUDING CURRENT SPREADING LAYERS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

III-nitride or III-phosphide light emitting devices include a light emitting region disposed between a p-type region and an n-type region. At least one heavily doped layer is disposed within either the n-type region or the p-type region or both, to provide current spreading.